

1. Brandon is a student who always walks by the bookstore on the way home. Everytime he reaches the store he checks out the new weekly additions. More often than not he ends up purchasing one. Because of this he has a bad habit of beginning new reads before finishing old ones. He wants to fix this habit by being able to visualize and easily keep track of how many in progress books he has. Using the book rating website he is able to input every book he has finished/started and is also able to input the exact page number he is on for each book to hopefully fix his bad habit.
2. Natalie is looking to start a new hobby because she has newly acquired free time. She's always wanted to start reading but had no idea where to start. Natalie discovers our application and finds book recommendations based on her favorite genres and a couple other books she's enjoyed in the past and now is able to get into reading and track her progress along the way.